FREE KIT FOR REAL ESTATE AGENTS

The Close More Leads Kit

Find your edge, know what to say when a lead comes in, and see what each closing really costs.

Leads cost money. What you do with them decides how much of that money comes back.

This kit gives you three things you can use today, whether you ever work with us or not. Use what helps, and change the words until they sound like you.

Jody McNamer, Done For You Leads

1. Find Your Edge worksheet
   Pin down the one clear reason a client should pick you.

2. First-contact scripts
   A text, a call, a voicemail and an email for when a new lead comes in.

3. Cost-per-closing worksheet
   See what you pay in advertising for each closed transaction.

PART 1

Find your edge

Most agents look identical online. Your edge is the one clear reason a client should pick you over everyone else in your market. Answer these five questions, then write your sentence.

1. Who do you serve best?

Be specific: an area, a price band, a kind of client.

---

2. What do clients thank you for after closing?

Write their words, not yours.

---

3. What do you do that most agents in your market don't?

Think about how you work, not only what you sell.

---

4. What can you prove?

Reviews, results, numbers, or a story you can tell.

---

5. What does a client miss out on if they pick someone else?

Say it plainly, without putting other agents down.

Your edge in one sentence

I help _____ get _____ by

_____.

The test: could another agent in your market say the same sentence? If yes, go back to question 3. When it passes, put it in your bio, your ads and your first message to every lead.

PART 2

First-contact scripts

When a lead reaches out, your first job is to answer them and start a conversation. Fill in the highlighted words, then make it sound like you.

Reply fast | Say why you're reaching out | Ask one easy question

The first text

Send it as soon as you can. Keep it short enough to answer with one thumb.

> Hi `name`, it's `your name` with `brokerage`. You asked about `what they asked about`. Happy to help. Are you hoping to move soon, or just getting a feel for the market?

The first call

Their request is your reason for calling, so lead with it.

> Hi `name`, this is `your name`. You asked about `what they asked about`, so I wanted to reach out while it's fresh. Do you have a minute for a quick question?

> What got you looking at `what they asked about`?

> If this all worked out the way you want, what would be different a year from now?

Asking for the appointment

Offer two times. It's easier to pick one than to think of one.

> The easiest next step is 15 minutes where I walk you through `the thing they care about`. Is `day and time` or `day and time` better for you?

When they say "I'm just looking"

> That's completely fine, and I won't push. What's one thing you'd want to know before you'd feel ready to make a move?

Only call or text people who gave you permission, and follow your state, brokerage and do-not-call rules.

If they don’t answer

One missed call doesn’t mean they’ve lost interest. Stay useful, stay polite, and keep going until they buy, sell or ask you to stop.

The voicemail

Under 20 seconds. Give them a reason to look for your text.

> Hi `name`, it’s `your name`. You asked about `what they asked about`, and I have an answer for you. I’ll text the details to this number now. You can reach me at `your number`.

The email

Subject: Your question about what they asked about

> Hi `name`,
>
> Thanks for reaching out about `what they asked about`. Here’s the short answer: `one or two helpful sentences`.
>
> So I can send you what’s actually useful: are you hoping to move soon, or just getting a feel for the market?
>
> `Your name`, `your number`

A simple follow-up rhythm

A starting point. Change it to fit your market and how your leads like to talk.

Right away	Send the first text, then call.
Next day	Call again, at a different time of day.
Day 3	Send one useful thing: homes that fit, or a short market note.
Day 7	Call, or send a short video if you’ve been getting no answer.
Each month	Check in with something worth reading, until they buy, sell or ask you to stop.

PART 3

What does a closing cost you?

If you can't name this number, you can't tell which leads are worth paying for. Fill in one column a month. The example uses made-up numbers to show the math. It's not a benchmark or a promise.

	Example	Month 1	Month 2	Month 3
A. Ad spend	$1,000
B. Leads	40
C. Leads you spoke with	20
D. Appointments	4
E. Closings	1
Cost per lead (A ÷ B)	$25
Cost per appointment (A ÷ D)	$250
Cost per closing (A ÷ E)	$1,000
Call-to-close (E ÷ C)	5%

Closings can land months after the lead came in, so look at several months together.

What your numbers are telling you

You're reaching too few leads (C is low next to B): reply faster, and use the rhythm in Part 2.

Conversations aren't becoming appointments (D is low next to C): practice the scripts in Part 2.

Appointments aren't becoming clients (E is low next to D): go back to your edge in Part 1.

Rather have all of this done for you?

Done For You Leads defines your USP, builds and runs your campaigns, handles the follow-up and reports what came in, what it cost and what converted. Our leads average a 6% call-to-close ratio.
